

May 26, 2011

Re: Huckabee

Dear School District Administrators,

It is with great pleasure that I offer this letter of reference for Huckabee Architecture, Engineering and Management. We have had the distinction to work with Huckabee on projects where their role was Architect, as well as projects where they served as the Construction Manager for a school district. In both scenarios, we have been impressed with the professionalism of their personnel, quality of contract documents and dedication toward fulfilling the needs of the school district.

The architects, engineers and inspectors at Huckabee practice what they preach. You hear the philosophy of teamwork on construction projects, where the architect and contractor work as a "team" to deliver the best product to the owner. I have seen first-hand that teamwork talked about so much is practiced on Huckabee jobs. Teamwork is not just a vision, but a concept they embrace.

Huckabee has been designing school projects a very long time. The function, economy, and efficiency are evident in their designs. They have developed proven standards that are acknowledged by their design and founded in their contract documents.

Above all else, it is apparent that the people that make up Huckabee, have enthusiasm in their jobs and a dedication to make each school project the best solution for that district.

I congratulate Huckabee on the work they've done, and I know you will be pleased with the next job they do for you.

Yours truly,
Lee Lewis Construction, Inc.

Tom E. Ferguson, AIA
President